General: In recent years, the field of alternative dispute resolution (“ADR”) has grown dramatically for resolving a wide range of conflicts, including those that arise in the workplace. As the presence of unions in the workplace has declined, many non-union employers have opted to provide their employees with a forum to resolve disputes that otherwise would go unresolved or would require lengthy and expensive litigation. As a result, grievance and other ADR procedures, long used in the unionized sector, have increased exponentially in the non-union sector. This course will explore the reasons for workplace conflict and compare the types of dispute resolution procedures that are used in both the union and non-union workplaces.

The first half of the course primarily examines dispute resolution in the non-union workplace while the second half explores the processes used to resolve disputes in the union sector. Although the class is focused on processes that are used to resolve labor and employment disputes there will also be an emphasis on substantive laws and collective bargaining agreement provisions that often are the sources of conflict. Some background and knowledge of employment or labor law is useful but not required.

The class will also include a focus on communication and negotiating skills that are beneficial regardless of your major or career path. We spend nearly a third of our lives at work and experience a variety of workplaces, supervisors and co-workers who have different methods of addressing or avoiding conflict. Dispute resolution skills are also beneficial in our everyday lives where disagreements may range from selecting a place to go to dinner to serious interpersonal conflicts.

Format: The class will be comprised of lecture, group work and videos. In addition, a labor arbitration simulation will be assigned where students will experience what it is like to analyze a case and to write an award and opinion as a labor arbitrator.

Required Textbook: There is one textbook that is required for this course: The Complete Guide to Conflict Resolution in the Workplace M. Masters and R. Albright. Paperback: 368 pages. Publisher: AMACOM (May 13, 2002). ISBN-10: 0814417183 ISBN-13: 978-0814417188

Additional required reading assignments will be posted on Sakai at no cost to students.

Class Preparation: Class will include lectures, small group discussions, simulations and in-class assignments. Student participation is very important in this class and therefore you are expected to:

- read the assigned material before class and be prepared to discuss it.
- attend, participate and be on time for every class. Because dispute resolution skills are developed throughout the course, attendance is very important.
- be familiar with the University's Policy on Academic Integrity and follow it: <http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu>

Absences: Attendance is required. Please report any absence in advance unless you have a sudden and unexpected illness or emergency. Do not call or email me directly to report an absence. Absences MUST be reported by using the university absence reporting website <https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra> to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email will be automatically sent to me.

If you must be absent it is your responsibility to obtain notes from a classmate. Get the email address of a classmate in case you need to find out about a homework assignment. If you will be absent, email the assignment so that it is timely. Late homework will NOT be accepted.

Class Participation: In-class meetings will include class discussions and group activities. You are encouraged to explain your views but listen and consider the views of others. Diversity of views and opinions are strongly encouraged. If it is difficult for you to speak up in class, try doing so in the smaller groups.

Communications: I will communicate class announcements via email. If you need to reach me email is the best method (wmd3@smlr.rutgers.edu).

Grades: For grading purposes there are four components:

1. Attendance, class participation, individual and group assignments. (25%)
2. A mid-term exam. (30%)
3. A mock-arbitration exercise with the grade based upon a written arbitration opinion and award in a case involving an employee who was suspended from work. (20%)
4. A final exam that focuses primarily on material covered during the second half of the semester but also including processes/principles from the first half of the semester. (25%)

Office Hours: Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of meeting with me to discuss any matters of concern or interest. I am available to meet in my office at the Labor Education Center on the Cook/Douglass Campus most weekdays by appointment.

Note to Graduate Students: Graduate students enrolled in this course will be responsible for the material covered below as well as additional material to be assigned.
