Youth at Work, Course 37:575:215:90/91, Fall 2026 Online Asynchronous

Instructor Information

Instructor: Jennifer Zachary

Course Format: Online, Asynchronous

E-mail: jennifer.zachary@rutgers.edu

Virtual Office Hours (through Zoom): Tuesdays 11am or upon request at Prof. Jennifer Zachary Zoom Room

Course Delivery Format

This course runs from September 1st - through December 22, 2026. It is delivered entirely online through the Learning Management System, Canvas. There will be no Face-to-Face, in-person classroom sessions, except for an optional virtual office hour.

The course is delivered asynchronously. This means that learning activities and communication take place outside of real time. You do not have to log in at any specific scheduled time; you log in at your convenience. However, there may be times when you're working in groups on an assignment, and you'll need to set up a live session via Canvas BigBlueButton, WebEx, or Zoom.

Note: Even though you don't need to log in at any specific time, you are required to adhere to all course work due dates.

Virtual Office Hour

- The Virtual Office Hour will be conducted through Zoom on Tuesdays 11am (or another day and time arranged) upon email request.

Learning Goals

The Core Curriculum Learning Goals assessed in this course include:

CCD-1: Analyze the degree to which forms of human differences and stratifications among social groups shape individual and group experiences of, and perspectives on, contemporary issues. Such differences and stratifications may include race, language, religion, ethnicity, country of origin, gender identity, sexual orientation, economic status, abilities or other social distinctions and their intersections.

SCL-1: Understand different theories about human culture, social identity, economic entities, political systems, and other forms of social organization.

SCL-2: Employ tools of social scientific reasoning to study particular questions or situations, using appropriate assumptions, methods, evidence, and arguments.

Learning Objectives – SMLR

1. Demonstrate an understanding of relevant theories and apply them given the background context of a particular work situation.
2. Evaluate the context of workplace issues, public policies, and management decisions.

Learning Objectives – LSER Department

3. Demonstrate an understanding of perspectives, theories, and concepts in our field.
4. Apply those concepts, along with substantive institutional knowledge, to contemporary developments.
5. Analyze the degree to which forms of human difference shape a person's experience of work

Accommodations

Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey abides by the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments (ADAA) of 2008, and Sections 504 and 508 which mandate reasonable accommodations be provided for qualified students with disabilities and accessibility of online information. If you have a disability and may require some type of instructional and/or examination accommodation, please contact me early in the semester so that I can provide or facilitate in providing accommodations you may need. If you have not already done so, you will need to register with the Office of Disability Services \(Links to an external site.\), the designated office on campus to provide services and administer exams with accommodations for students with disabilities. Below is the full contact information for the Office of Disability Services:

Communication

You should inform the professor of any personal emergencies that may arise which will prevent you from getting online. I am available via email (abahruth@rutgers.edu) or through Canvas Inbox at any time and I generally try to answer emails on the same day they are received. I frequently check my emails during the day. Every other week or so I will also schedule a Zoom drop in office hours session. I will post when these will be so that if you would like to meet “in person” we can do so.

Course Description

This course explores youth experiences in the labor market. The course starts by examining the work experiences of children and youth in the 19th and early 20th century. We begin by exploring the idea of child labor, and how it is defined in social and economic contexts. We then investigate several industries including---coal mines, manufacturing, textiles, homework, street work and agriculture---to better understand the causes and effects of child labor in US history, why it matters both socially and economically, reform programs that emerged, and how the US history of child labor can contribute to understanding global child labor problems today.

The course further explores the contemporary experiences of young people in the labor market. We will explore how young people prepare for work, view their education and workforce development pathways, and view their work and future careers. Here we will focus on the experiences of young workers across racial, class, and gender lines and pay particular attention to the growing working poor in the youth labor market, and how public policy can address some of these inequalities. Central to this half of the course will be an analysis of the experiences of young people in the current economy, and various policies and programs that can improve their experiences and economic security, especially in the midst of the current economic crisis.

This course explores several questions, including:

- Why do young people work?
- What jobs/industries are youth likely to work in, and how has this changed over time?
- Why and how are young workers concentrated in specific industries/occupations?
- How does young people's role in the labor market today differ from the role of previous generations of young workers?
- What are some of the challenges that young people face at work?
- How are the challenges that young workers face differed by cultural context and compared with adult workers?
- Have you ever been hurt at work, or do you know of a young worker who was?
- How can young workers and their advocates improve young peoples' experiences in the labor market?

Discussion Forums

In the absence of a face-to-face interaction, the discussion forums become essential in sharing your thoughts, experiences, and expertise with each other. Discussion is a significant portion of this course. Participation is required as this is a graded activity.

Before posting your thoughts, reply to the discussion forum, make sure to have read the assigned readings, viewed/listened to the relevant media (videos, podcasts, etc). Take time to reflect on what you have read and viewed, organize your references, and citations. Write a draft, refine your response, save your document in Word (just in case), then copy and paste it to the Discussion forum(s). Provide a substantial response supported by references and citations. Stay on topic. Follow the Discussion Post Guidelines and Rubric noted in each Discussion Forum Portal.

With the exception of Week 1 Discussion, your Discussion Forums are set up as a Group Discussion; 10 students per group. Over the course of the semester, your groups will be randomly reset, so you get to know your classmates.

Note: Timeliness is important - a good discussion entails keeping the dialogue going (throughout the given week) with your classmates. To facilitate dialogue, it is critical that you adhere to the Discussion post due dates, so you have sufficient time to respond to each other's posts. Please do not wait until the last day of the week to post your replies.

- Each forum opens on Monday of the week. The first post is due on Wednesdays and replies to you re due on Saturdays. Each forum closes on a Sunday of the week.
- You are encouraged to post your replies by audio, video, and/or text. Refer to each forum portal for instructions. If you reply in audio/video, you still need to post your citations and references in the forum portal, in text.
- The Discussion Forums are set up for groups of 10 students, 6 groups in total. There are 3 rounds of Forum groups in which you are randomly assigned to different Forum groups, so you get to know and interact with your classmates.

Course Project

Detailed project information will be available in Week 3. You may work individually or with a partner. Please reach out to me by week 5 if you wish to work with a partner for this project.

Grade Distribution

A final grade is based on a 1000-point system. Each assignment is worth a specific number of points. Total points accumulated determine the final course grade.

Grading Components	Percent towards Final Grade
Discussion Forum Participation (50 points each)	40%
Writing Assignments	20%
Course Project	40%
Total	100%

Grading Scale

Policies and Procedures

Using AI Tools:

Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools, including text generators like ChatGPT, can be valuable resources for learning and research. However, their use must be transparent and ethical:

- Disclosure: If you use AI tools to aid your work, you must disclose this use. Clearly indicate which parts of your assignment or project were assisted by AI.
- Attribution: Treat AI tools as you would like any other source. Provide proper attribution and citations for any content generated by AI that you include in your submissions.
- Originality: Ensure that most of your work reflects your own understanding and effort. AI should not replace your critical thinking and creativity but rather support and enhance it.
- Accuracy: AI tools can sometimes produce inaccurate or biased information. Always verify the content generated by AI and use your judgment to determine its validity and relevance.
- Failure to adhere to these guidelines may be considered a violation of academic integrity and could result in disciplinary action. For further guidance, please refer to the Guidelines on the Use of AI at Rutgers.
- Regarding using AI tools, please follow the Guidelines on the use of AI at Rutgers.

Let's work together to ensure our learning is genuine and respectful.

Online Participation and Engagement

The success of this course depends on active engagement and dialogue by members of the class. You must be fully prepared to discuss and debate the issues raised in the assigned reading material. The course week begins on Monday for all weeks and ends on Sunday.

Your Responsibilities

Online learning requires a high level of discipline, dedication, and time management skills. While online learning offers you flexibility and convenience to learn from anyplace, anytime, *you are still expected to adhere to all due dates.

You are expected to:

- Have access to a reliable computer, and access to the Internet
- Log in to Canvas for your course on a regular basis
- Check for any announcements, update to the syllabus, assignments, and/or discussions and respond accordingly
- Actively participate in the Discussion Forum
- Complete the assigned readings and/or media
- Complete the assigned exercises and projects
- Adhere to all due dates

In case of computer failure

Make sure you have an alternative plan of access to your Canvas course in case your computer crashes (it happens). Additionally, be sure to backup your important documents and assignments on a flash drive or other external device.

Where to Next?

After reviewing the syllabus components, proceed to Modules, and review the Learning Support Resources before starting Week 1 activities.

Any Broken Links

At SMLR we strive to continuously improve all course designs. If you come across any broken links/URLs, or suggestions for improving the course design, please feel free to email Marta Pulley, SMLR's Instructional Designer/Technology Specialist, Online DEI
