Rutgers University, Spring 2021

Instructor: Professor Francis Ryan
Email: fr156@smlr.rutgers.edu
Monday-Thursday: 10:55 am-12:15 pm

Course Description: This class will introduce the important developments and themes in the history of work in the Americas from the period of initial contact between European, African and Native American civilizations to the period after the U.S. Civil War. The approach will center on the historical shifts that influenced the decisions that shaped early American concepts of work, including slavery, indentured servitude, free labor and the rise and impact of industrialization and the early labor movement.

Please note that this course also meets the writing distribution requirement for the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to developing your own writing skills through writing successive drafts, you will learn to provide constructive feedback to other students' writing. As part of the writing component, the class has two additional instructors who will facilitate writing instruction in the class, coordinate peer review sessions on designated days, and assess final writing projects. At the conclusion of the course, students should demonstrate an increase in their knowledge and skills in writing/revising academic essays. Specifically, student should be able to:

- organize a paper from thesis, to topic sentence, to conclusion,
- interact with texts by using meaningful citations in their papers,
- use a range of sentence structures, and
- write meaningful, clear, and organized papers.

Course Participation Guidelines

Class attendance and participation: This class will meet at the appointed time via a Zoom call set up on our class Canvas site. Roll will be taken at the start of each class. You are expected to attend each class, and repeated absences will result in a downgrade. I understand that we are all facing unique challenges due to the current pandemic, and I am attuned to all that you may be experiencing. Please let me know if you ever experience any special circumstances, as I will work with you to make this semester go smoothly and to help you accomplish your best work. In addition to attendance, you will have opportunities to participate in weekly discussions, both in the class meeting, and occasionally, in threaded discussion posts.

Exams: Due to the remote nature of our class, our exams—one midterm and one final (really, a second midterm, as it is not cumulative)—will be open book take home exams. You will have an extended number of days to complete the exams, which consist of short essays based upon what is covered in the class content.

All writing assignments should be emailed to your designated reader before class time the day they are due. Out of respect to those who meet this expectation, late papers will be subject to downgrading.

Disability Statement: Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University's educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines>. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus's disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the Registration form on the ODS web site at: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/registration-form>.

This course is open to all students who meet the academic requirement for participation. Any student who has a need for accommodation based on the impact of disability should refer to the Rutgers Office of Disability Services and then contact the instructor privately to discuss the specific situation as soon as possible.

Please note that the syllabus may change during the semester as I deem necessary.

Paper Assignments:

Paper Assignment 1

"The beginning of European settlement of the Americas from 1492 was marked by an extensive demand for labor. As the assigned class readings and film documentaries show, the earliest forms of labor involved both coerced labor and forms of indentured servitude that utilized the work of Europeans, Native Americans and African peoples. By the late 1600s, this fluid labor arrangement became more restrictive and formalized, with a form of racially (African) based slavery imposed in North America. What factors contributed to this development? How and why did this transformation occur?"

Write a 5 page paper that addresses the question posed above. In your response, be sure to base your claims on materials read in the assigned readings (you do not need to read additional sources for this assignment.)

Drafts of the paper are due in class for the peer review session scheduled for Thursday February 11. (Bring 2 hardcopies to class and upload your draft to your designated reader via email) You will be given additional feedback from the TAs assigned to work with you in the following week. The final draft of the paper should be emailed to your designated reader on Thursday March 4.

All papers should follow standard grammar, punctuation and citation methods. An in class exercise will provide an overview on proper citation.

Final drafts are to be submitted electronically to your designated reader by class time the day they are due.

Paper Assignment 2

As the industrial revolution developed in the United States, traditional patterns of work were disrupted and replaced by more rigid, structured, factory-based workplaces. The older notion of the "Artisan Republic"—in which craftsmen could aspire to the status of a master within their given field—was threatened. American workers resisted this change. In what ways did Americans seek to maintain these older traditions of work, and how successful were they?

Write a 5 page paper that addresses the question posed above. In your response, be sure to base your claims on materials read in the assigned readings (you do not need to read additional sources for this assignment.)

2 hardcopies of the first draft are due in class for the peer review session scheduled for Monday April 8. You will also provide your assigned reader a copy via email attachment on that day. You will be given additional feedback from the TAs assigned to work with you in the following week. The final draft of the paper should be submitted via email attachment to your assigned reader no later than class time May 3.

It is important that you know who your assigned reader is: please consult the group listed provided on the Canvas sight. Paper drafts that are not sent in a timely fashion to the appropriate reader will be downgraded.

Final drafts are to be submitted electronically to your designated reader by class time the day they are due.
